

MURDERED.

Tom Met Murdered While Protecting His Store in the Person.

MARK HANNA FOR SENATOR.

Fire Claims Three Victims, the Deadly Grate the Cause.

SWALLOWED A LIZZARD AND DIED.

Henderson, Ky., Nov. 14.—This city was the scene of a robbery and murder last night. Tom Metzner was murdered last night while attempting to protect his store against robbers. Metzner slept in his store and this morning was found dead in his store and the store robbed. There is no clue to the murderers. The city is greatly excited and every possible attempt is being made to discover who perpetrated the horrible deed.

Fell Into the Fire. Lexington, Nov. 14.—James Parker, of this city, an old man 90 years of age, today fell into the grate and was burned to death before he was discovered.

Another Death by Fire. Uniontown, Ky., Nov. 14.—Mrs. Liguard Byrne died today from burns received by her clothes catching fire. She was washing clothes and her dress caught fire from the grate. Before aid could reach her she was so horribly burned that she lived but a short time.

Is Being Tried for Forgery. Indianapolis, Nov. 14.—Percy Sullivan, of this city, who was recently arrested in St. Louis for forgery, is now being tried here. He still claims that he is not the man, but that it is a case of mistaken identity. It is thought, however, that he will be convicted.

Hanna for Senator. Canton, O., Nov. 14.—The latest political rumor is that Mark A. Hanna will be a candidate for the United States senate to succeed Senator Brice. This rumor is considered to be well founded. Should Hanna become a candidate he will almost certainly be elected.

Death in the County. Dallas, Tex., Nov. 14.—A young man of the Grahamville section, and son of Mr. Jordan Sumner, died last night of erysipelas, aged 17. He was unmarried and leaves besides his parents several brothers and sisters. The remains were buried this afternoon at the Billingsly burial ground.

Delaware Solid. Wilmington, Del., Nov. 14.—Governor Watson issued a proclamation yesterday declaring that all the vote cast for James G. Shaw and James G. Shaw, Sr., for Presidential electors shall count for James G. Shaw, as his name was on the several ballots in two ways. This will send three McKinley electors from Delaware to the electoral college.

Knox County Mines. Barbourville, Ky., Nov. 14.—The Cannel coal mine, Knox county, which has been shut down on account of hard times, will start up again, and will commence building the railroad to Stinking creek as soon as possible. It is said this is one of the finest cannel coal mines in any state in the Union. The other mines will also work full forces.

Work for Thousands. Duluth, Minn., Nov. 14.—It is officially announced here that the Rockefeller iron syndicate has sold $500,000 worth of Minnesota ore to be delivered next season, and 60,000 tons of Spanish-American ore. This will enable the underground mines on the Mesaba range to resume operations at once and will give employment to thousands of men.

Valuable Horses Burned. Lexington, Nov. 14.—Josi B. B. the pacing mare which holds the world's record, was burned last night with six other valuable horses. The horses were the property of Mrs. Stokes, of New York. The stable caught fire and burned with the horses before they could be rescued.

Stocks Are All Up. New York, Nov. 14.—The week closing today has witnessed the highest prices for stock of all kinds that have been known since the beginning of the panic. The bank statement today is most encouraging, showing a gain in deposits of security $16,000,000.

Great Loss of Life. Vienna, Nov. 14.—Reports have reached here of great loss of life at the village of Bisonea from floods. One hundred and thirty persons are said to have lost their lives and the destruction of property is enormous.

A Colored Man Wins. Boston, Nov. 14.—The board of election commissioners finished the recount of votes in the fortieth congressional district last night, and Isaac D. Allen, the republican candidate was declared elected over Hon. John H. Sullivan, who now represents the district, and who was the democratic candidate. Allen's majority was only 62 votes. There is no appeal from the decision of the election commissioners and the governor's council stands for the first time in its history solidly republican, while Allen holds the highest political office ever given a colored man by the voters of Massachusetts.

The two councilors were born in slavery and escaped during the war, serving with General B. F. Butler. He was with him after the war on the famous chooner America, which General Butler owned. At the time of the republican convention, at which Allen was nominated, the place on the ticket was offered to a number of prominent republicans, but all refused it, not desiring to run in a strong Democratic district and be defeated. Allen's election was as much a surprise to him as to his Democratic opponent. Sullivan carried the district last year by over $5,000.

Swallowed a Lizzard. Henderson, Ky., Nov. 14.—Julia Parsons, a young girl in Union county, swallowed a lizzard yesterday and is dead. She drank water from a spring. She died in horrible agony.

A Horrible Death. Louisville, Ky., Nov. 14.—Alexander Day, of Elliott county, was burned to death yesterday. He was a very old man and was sitting by the fire smoking his pipe, when he fell over and his clothes caught fire from the grate. It is thought that he must have fallen asleep.

WAR RUMORS.

That Spain is Preparing to Fight With Uncle Sam.

Washington, Nov. 14.—It is thought here that Spain is preparing for war with United States. This is responsible for the sudden revival of the agitation of the Cuban question and for the activity in preparing our fleet for service. This government is acting on the belief that but two things could happen, which would prevent hostility with Spain. One of these things is the abrogation of the Cuban treaty six weeks. The other is the interposition of Great Britain to compel Spain to grant the liberty of Cuba.

The first is not regarded as at all probable. The second may happen, but still the prospect is remote. The idea of Spain going to war with the United States seems so absurd that an explanation of the situation in which the Spanish government is placed is necessary. It is recognized by the United States that Spain cannot relinquish her hold in Cuba without the expenditure of blood and treasure which this revolution has cost, without its involving the overthrow of the present government of Spain.

Of the three parties in Spain, the reigning power is regarded as the weakest with the people. Whether the Spanish government doubts that Cuban independence would result immediately in a revolution and cost the power if not the lives of the young King and Regent.

A TOWN Wiped Out.

Hinson Springs, a Watering Place of Note, Entirely Destroyed by the Fire Friday Afternoon.

Hinson Springs, a pleasure and health resort of considerable notoriety on the line of this road one mile south of Lexington, Tenn., was entirely destroyed by fire Friday afternoon. The origin of the conflagration was not learned. As Conductor Tom Pile's train came through yesterday afternoon the "Mammoth" hotel and all the surrounding cottages were in full blaze. From later advice we learn that the fire flamed made a clean sweep and nothing of the whilom beautiful resort remains but the charred and smoking ash heaps. The Springs were the property of a resident of this city. It is not known whether or not he carried any insurance.

NIBLETT WAS STUBBORN.

And Refused to Go Back to Metropolis.

Without a Requisition—Committed to Jail This Forenoon.

Officer J. P. Evers, of Metropolis, came after John Niblett, wanted at that place for breaking into a store and stealing a set of harness, this forenoon, and Judge Sanders had the prisoner brought up from the lockup for the purpose of turning him over to the Illinois officer. Niblett was obstinate, however, and refused to go without a requisition. This unexpected turn of affairs resulted in the prisoner being committed to the county jail to await the proper papers, and Officer Evers returned home this afternoon.

TWO WIVES.

It Appears That Lee Gallion Was a Bigamist.

BOTH WANT THE REMAINS.

The Railroad Authorities and Coroner at a Loss to Know How to Proceed.

HIS WIVES BOTH EXPECTED TODAY.

The remains of Lee Gallion, the colored L. C. brakeman who was killed yesterday at the Tennessee street crossing, are much in demand, seemingly.

Claim Agent J. G. Miller, Trainmaster J. J. Flynn and Coroner Nance were in desperate straits last night. Mr. Flynn discovered that Gallion had two wives, both dead, true and loyal spouses, one living at Central City and the other at Memphis. Both telegraphed to ship the remains, and both claimed that they were entitled to them by priority of matrimony.

Trainmaster Flynn telegraphed the fact to Attorney Miller last night, and he advised the former to investigate the matter and award the remains to whichever woman proved the best claim to them.

Mr. Flynn succeeded in finding one colored man who saw Gallion and his Memphis wife married last Easter day at Memphis, but nobody could be found who knew anything about the one at Central City.

Meanwhile Coroner Nance was at a loss to know what to do with the remains, whether to ship them to Central City or to Memphis. He finally concluded to hold them until noon today and await the respective wives, turning over the body to the one establishing priority of claim.

Gallion was quite well known but no one knew he had two wives. This is the first instance on record in Paducah where two women claimed one man, especially after he was deceased.

Mary Gallion, accompanied by her eight-year-old son, arrived this forenoon from Central City and went at once to Nance's undertaking establishment, where she viewed the remains.

She claims she was married to the deceased fourteen years ago, but had lived with him only at irregular intervals for the past four years. Sometimes he would not come home for months, she claims, but never failed to send her money.

There is another phase of the case that may have some bearing on the claim of more wives than allowed by law on one man—and a dead one.

Gallion carried about $5,000 life insurance, had a fine watch, and these, of course, have to be given to the right one.

Coroner Nance will await the arrival of the other woman before deciding what to do with the body. The wife from Memphis did not arrive this afternoon. Since the above was written it is learned that Gallion had married twice since he became the husband of the Central City woman, one wife being buried here and the other in Memphis. Coroner Nance will probably turn the remains over to the woman from Central City.

IN CUBA.

Is Fred Gray, a Former Paducah Boy.

Is Fighting the Spaniards—Wrote to His Father Here.

Mr. James R. Gray, a well known carpenter of the Illinois Central, who lives on Monroe street, is in receipt of a letter from his son, Fred Gray, who is in Cuba fighting with the insurgents.

Mr. Gray had not heard from his son for some time, the latter being of a Bohemian turn of mind. Fred Gray formerly resided with his father in Paducah, and has a large number of friends here. He afterwards lived in Grand Rivers, and drifted about the country until he joined a filibustering expedition to Cuba.

He seems pretty well satisfied in Cuba, and is confident of the ultimate success of the cause of freedom.

$5,000 DAMAGES.

This Is What R. E. Witherspoon Wants.

Claims That He Lost an Eye Through Negligence of the C. O. & S. W.

Yesterday afternoon a transcript was filed in the United States circuit court, from Caldwell county. The suit is R. E. Witherspoon against St. John Boyle, receiver of the C. O. & S. W. railroad, for $5,000 damages.

The plaintiff alleges that last March he was a track repairer on the C. O. & S. W. railroad under the direction of R. E. Welch, fireman of section 30. He it being instructed to drive spikes into the ties, and there, he and his fellow-ringer came to the end of the spike.

He protested, claiming that it was his order, and while the spikes were being driven, and while the plaintiff was in the line of one of the spikes, he was struck in the left eye, the spike striking him in the eye, and destroying his vision. It was his great pain and cost him a day's work for physicians, all of which he claims was through negligence and carelessness of the defendants. He prays judgment for $5,000.

The case came up in the circuit court at Paducah at its last term and was transferred to the United States Court here, where it will come up for trial next week.

$93 PER SHARE.

The I. C. Quotes Price of Stock for November.

This morning notices were posted at various places in the Illinois Central yards and shops announcing that the price of stock to employees for the month of November was $93 per share.

A great many of the employees, it is said, are availing themselves of this opportunity to become stockholders in the road.

THAT MISSING MONEY.

An Interesting Case to Come Before "Uncle Sam"

Relative to the Mysterious Disappearance of $500 Sent From Union City.

An answer will today or Monday be filed in the United States court in the case of the City National Bank, of Union City, Tenn., against Farmer, Elbridge & Co., of Paducah, wherein the plaintiff institutes suit for $4830 on a note.

Readers of the local papers are not unfamiliar with the facts in the case. Sometime since the defendants executed a note to the Tennessee bank for the amount named above and a packet alleged to have contained that amount was forwarded by the Southern Express Company from the bank at Union City. When the package was opened here, but $4330 were found, and an exhaustive search was made for the missing $500, but to no avail.

The express company had detectives trace the package, but apparently the $500 had taken sudden flight while being transported only a few miles, or else had never been put in at all.

The answer which will be filed recites in substance that the note for $4830 was never due because that amount of money was not received. The circumstance of the $500 shortage is narrated, and the defendants allege that they notified the bank within two hours after the package was received here and opened and that they refused and still refuse to make it good. And further they ask that the Southern Express company be made a party to the suit, by reason of the fact that it had undertaken and contracted and bound itself to safely transport the packages of money, and that if any of it was lost the company is responsible for it. They also ask that the action against them be dismissed.

The case promises to develop some interesting phases. The attorneys for the prosecution, it is claimed, can show where the money went, and this seems to be the principal question which is enveloped in mystery, to say the least.

JUDGE THOMAS

Render's Opinion in Garnishee Cases.

In Harmony With Judge Bishop's Opinion on the Subject.

County Judge Thomas today rendered an opinion in regard to garnishee cases.

The Jake Biederman Grocery company recently garnished the wages of Thomas Bailey. Before the case came up in Justice Tully's court a writ of prohibition was taken out before Judge Bishop, who issued a temporary injunction, which remained in force until the case came up before Judge Bishop.

The motion to make the writ of prohibition perpetual was overruled. Judge Bishop deciding that he had no jurisdiction in the case. He gave it as his opinion, however, that workmen are entitled to the exemptions prescribed by law. Justice Tully rendered judgment in the case against Bailey and the case was appealed to Judge Thomas' court.

The latter now decides just as Judge Bishop did—that the legal exemption of $50 per month is right and that no amount can be garnished where the income or wages is less.

The opinion is said to fully cover the ground, and is in perfect harmony with Judge Bishop's idea on the subject.

No cough remedy equals Dr. Bell's Pine Tar Honey for anybody of any age, from infancy on through life until they are as old as Good Old Granny Metcalf.

FEET TRANSIT IN EUROPE.

Almost Unknown and No Elevated Roads.

An American living in a city, and who has never been abroad, does not begin to appreciate the enormous advantages he has in the way of rapid transit by street railways over his European brother similarly situated. With us a city that still clings to her ancient horsecars is considered "dead slow" and considered not up to date. The rapid trolley stretches its rails in all directions, traversing all of the principal streets of our cities and connecting them with miles and miles of their suburbs and often even with other cities. In our larger cities, like New York, the elevated railroads or the cable cars daily carry their thousands of passengers with the highest possible speed consistent with safety, recognizing the great American need of covering a given distance in the shortest possible time.

Across the ocean all this is changed; there the trolley is almost, and with one exception the elevated road wholly unknown, and the residents of even London have to depend almost entirely on the primitive bus. This seems almost beyond belief to an American, but such is the fact.

Let us therefore glance at the different methods of public conveyance in this, the largest city in the world. In London the principal means of getting around is by buses, and it is estimated that there are nearly a thousand of them in use every day. The greater part of them are owned by the London General Omnibus company, and their semi-annual report shows that in six months they carried the enormous number of 52,843,477 passengers, a total distance driven being 9,091,330 miles.

Omnibuses first came into use in 1829. Before that time people had to get around as best they could. They ran daily from 8 a. m. to 12 at night, and the fares vary, according to the distance, from 1 penny to 6 pence in English money, or from 2 cents to 15 cents in ours. Contrast this with our elevated trains running all night and on which one may ride from the Battery to Harlem for a nickel.

The London bus is a huge lumbering vehicle drawn by two or three horses and plastered over with advertising signs. They are all double-deckers—that is, they have seats both inside and on top, the inside seats running lengthwise, and those on top crosswise, with an aisle down the center. These top seats are reached by means of a spiral stairway from the rear. Each bus accommodates about 40 passengers, each person being entitled to a seat, and when all are taken the bus is declared full and no more passengers are admitted, there being no such thing as hanging on to a strap for three or four miles, or crowding a hundred people into a place intended to hold half that number, and there is no necessity for a gentleman to rise and give a lady his seat.

As soon as a passenger mounts a bus he takes a seat inside or on top, as he may prefer and there is room, both being the same price, and the conductor immediately comes to him, inquires his destination and charges him accordingly, and gives him a ticket which he is required to show in case of dispute, and which contains the principal stations of that line, the one nearest his stopping-place being punched. The ticket also contains the amount of his fare. In case the passenger should let himself be carried beyond the station punched, another fare is immediately collected. The conductor does not announce any stops, so each person has to look out for himself.

Undoubtedly the best method of transportation in London is the underground railway. This traffic is all in the hands of the Victoria Steamboat as a whole, whose boats run every few minutes from London bridge to Chelsea, calling at 15 intermediate piers. The fares are from one penny to six pence on week days, and double that on Sundays and holidays. These boats all set low in the water and have only one deck, which is all open, the only protection being an awning which is stretched over a portion of the stern. As most of the bridges are very low, the boats, in order to pass under them at high water, have to have a joint in the smokestack, which enables it to be lowered to the deck while passing through the arches.

For those who can afford it nothing can beat a cab as a means of getting around. There are two kinds of these, the four-wheeler and the two-wheeler or hansom. The hansom is by far the easier riding of the two, and as the driver is perched up behind there is nothing to obstruct the view. The fares are fixed by law, a cab hired by time costing two shillings sixpence (about 60 cents) per hour, while those hired by the distance charge accordingly, no fare, however, being less than one shilling. In addition to the legal fare the driver always expects a tip of from two pence to sixpence—Ladies Weekly.

Variation.

The little boy whose head has a tendency to bulge out at the top like a mushroom, owing, as his parents truly believe, to the extraordinary amount of knowledge it contains, was gazing gravely at his father who was making his breakfast off ice water.

"People change a great deal when they grow up, don't they?" the boy observed.

"Of course," his mother answered.

"And yet they're very much the same after all," he continued, musingly.

"What are you talking about?"

"About grown men and boys. When a boy goes out and eats whatever he wants and pays no attention to what anybody says the next day he has a stomach ache."

"Very often."

"And when a grown man goes out to a banquet, the only difference is that the next morning he has a headache. This ache seems to move around, but it's your neighbor's ache."

"Detroit, Michigan."

"Very often."

THAT MEDICAL MUDDLE.

It Has Stirred Up Quite a Controversy.

Doctors are Divided in Their Opinion as to the Probable Outcome.

Nothing of recent occurrence has created such a commotion in local medical circles as the failure of Dr. Albert Bernheim, late of Hamburg, Germany, to procure a license to practice medicine.

The facts, first detailed exclusively in the Sun, are now generally known, but as to the ultimate outcome there is considerable of a disparity in professional opinion. The refusal to accredit the doctor a permit to practice, which is essential before a license can be procured, is but an enforcement of principles enunciated some time since by the State Board of Health, and is more in the nature of a protection than a retaliation. For eign diplomas may be genuine, and then they may not be, and to obviate imposition, the rule was adopted requiring every practicing physician, without an exception, to have an American diploma. Several of the doctors do not question the board of health's rule, but deem the latter organization somewhat arbitrary, and claim that it has exceeded the authority given it by law.

One doctor illustrated the principle thus: "I might study medicine for a year or two and get a mere smattering of it, take some doctor's diploma and go to a foreign country under an assumed name with it. If they recognized it I would be allowed to practice, although incompetent; so in Germany and other countries they do not recognize American diplomas. On the other hand, some fellow might take a two years' course in some 'wild cat' school in Germany and come over here with his diploma to practice. To prevent this no foreign diplomas are recognized, and although this works a hardship on many good doctors, no exception can be made of them and the rule temporarily suspended. In nearly all countries they have these 'wild cat' schools where a student can get a diploma in one or two years, trusting to subsequent experience for proficiency in the profession.

Relative to the state board of health, another prominent doctor said: "I think the board is entirely too arbitrary, and does many things that are not authorized by law. In regard to Dr. Bernheim, however, the only thing that I know of that can be done is to take out a mandamus against the state board of health, and make a test case of it, if nothing else. I don't believe that there is any law that justifies the board of health in refusing to permit any competent man practicing medicine. It is contrary to American principles."

The matter is still in statu quo and no one knows what will develop from it.

It is thus far all buncombe to talk or write—about whose going to run for office next year. A contemporary has just published, for the second time within the past few months, an alleged list of those who will become candidates. Over half of the gentlemen so referred to deny that they ever had even a thought of running for office.

There are said to be a great many holes and gullies in the streets that need refilling. On Washington street between Fourth and Fifth there is a very dangerous depression of this kind, left by some plumbler. There is a law against leaving the streets in such a condition, and Street Inspector Cosby will doubtless see that the hole is filled.

Tomorrow the Kentucky game law expires, and emulous nimrods will be free to go out and kill all the quail they can carry. It is said that there was never seen such numbers of birds, and all the local sportsmen are eager to get out and see how many they can bring back with them.

Local sportsmen, however, enjoy advantages that can be found perhaps in no other portion of the state. The game laws in both Illinois and Tennessee expire weeks before the Kentucky law, and although the birds cannot be legally shot in this state, the hunter can go a few miles either way and enter good territory for shooting. Game laws do not handicap hunters in this end of the state.

Depositions are being taken in the case of young Lee Potter, who married a young lady of the county one year and brought suit for divorce last week. The present probably be the last at the present term of court, which will soon draw to a close to make way for the December criminal term.

Depositions in the Potter case were taken and he about the racist on Ford and one was so ultra-startling that the young lady stenographer declined to take it.

Potter, who will be remembered as the man who was charged with ruining the girl and made to marry her at the point of a pistol, the father and other accompanying him to town to procure the license. The case will be most bitterly fought in the Percy Sullivan, formerly of Bowdoin Green, the young man who is the subject of trouble in St. Louis, being arrested for counterfeiting and forgery, is well known in Paducah. Having been quite a conspicuous son-of-a-bitch in the encampment of the State guards here three years ago, he is the only one in the Third Regiment known to have worn a corncob.

He was adjutant of the Regiment and spent most of his time talking about exhibiting his striking physique. He was gallant and popular, a favorite with the ladies and the envy of the other soldier boys.

He embraced every opportunity to "ny" him.

He seems to be pretty deep into the mire, and the papers are full of it.

In addition to his other misadventures he got married, and his bride confesses an utter ignorance of his true character. He claims it is a case of mistaken identity.

It was in the early spring of 1865 that the writer was transferred from the train on the Mississippi & Tennessee railroad at Grenada, Miss., and ordered to report to Maj. J. S. Wilson, the district commissariat. Having been in a steamboatman for several years prior to the war and between Paduchan and Nasirabad at the time he enlisted, he pointed out a small supple boat, the size of a M. S. ship, the only boat of the big fleet of floating palaces which were run up the Yazoo river for safety when the "Yankee" warships besieged Vicksburg. The ship had been formerly a New Orleans and Bayou Sara packet, and was of about 500 tons register. She had been saved from the fate which had overtaken the rest of the fleet by being above the raft and running up the Yallahusha river, a narrow, crooked tributary of the main stream. It is of this ship which we write there was an immense overflow of the Mississippi river, and that "Father of Waters," unrestricted by the levees

Today, a seventy-five or eighty miles wide. There had been some kind of a cartel arranged between the commanding generals of both armies in that district, whereby the steamboats of the federalists under flag of truce could ascend the Yazoos as far as Greenwood, Mississippi, about 3 miles below the confluence of the Tallahatchie and Yallabusha rivers, which make the Yazoos or "river of death," which the Choctaw Indian word signifies. They were loaded flat with all kinds of plantations and army supplies, besides merchandise of all description, which the crew were changed, for cotton. The sharp had made one round trip or two, and the snake-like stream after the writer had been appointed her purser under the command of Capt. Jas Irwin with a well-known old St. Louis and "cannesee river pilot, Kit Haslip, a man with a wheel. As his duties as superintendent were merely nominal, and as he was always nursed a mania to be a pilot the writer spent most of his time while the boat was under way, steering for Kit. We had left Gretna early in the morning on our second voyage with 931 bales of cotton, which were to be exchanged for the steamer Hoerner's. I had a good view of the river and the greenwood. Late that afternoon the overflow having commenced, we recede, we ran abreast of the piston at full stroke, but it was of no avail. The current had run into the raging, madly rushing waters of the crevasse we went.

Immediately behind the levee was a submerged cotton field full of stumps and dead dead trees; beyond about 100 yards off was an unbroken line of dense, green, tropical forest, and we were drifting at a rapid rate, withstanding all the power of the engines was exerted to hold her back and the united strength of Kit and the writer were trying to pull her out of the current. The writer was greatly excited and pulled down on the wheel frantically at every signal from Kit. Just as we were about to enter the timber Kit rang out "Stop her, stop her, pull her head as tightly as possible, a line with a fairly old oak, get to me," "That will do," and making out of the window I answered the captain. When Irvine answered Kit as cool as she's got to go to hell now it will be the best luck in the world." The piston the water had almost uprooted the tree and when the weight of the boat came against it over it toppled and we passed over it safely.

We finally got the boat checked and over two days hard work with the assistance of the old planter (I think name was Mullins) who brought his negroes to our relief we cut a passage to a bayou and got back into the river. We finished the trip to Greenwood, exchanged carriages with the Hoemeyer, her's consisted of mules, harness, canes, shoes, ammunition, knifed, rifles and every other kind of army supplies which we needed in the Southern army, for which we gave them cotton and a commodity which they were very anxious to obtain. Whether the two governments were enizigant of the transaction or whether it was a sub rosa speculation the commanding generals of the trietrich has always been a mystery to a writer. At that time he was a soldier and had only to obey orders "C. L."

Small Items With Reference to the Remedy for the Cough.

Color on the table is principally composed of what are known as colored tints. Pink, yellow, white and blue are in favor, and the Heliotrope tea is a special achievement of a young matron who has unlimited means at her command. Heliotrope, however, does not work out with such fine detail as yellow or pink or white. Perhaps one of the most charming entertainments on this coast was a swordplay tea given to a debutante. Everything was white except the little foliage noddles as yellow and pink blossoms were scattered like the flowers from looking bare and cropped.

The White Man's Garden is a ghastly name, well deserved by the Sierra Leone coast, but, according to Lieut. Col. Trotter, who has been settling the Anglo-French boundary in that region, the Hinterland of Sierra Leone is more like the white man's paradise. This Hinterland is a fertile district, with plenty of game and crops producing almost anything, suitable for cattle raising and healthy for Europeans—quite unlike the coast line.—Chicago Tribune.

THE TENDER FROG.
General Methods of Cooking His Tooth-some Legs.

 every midsummer day, when sentimental riders seek the St. John's wort and shades of June fill every one with delight, the frog is in supreme condition food. He is young and plump as young chickens should be, and too young are not. He is a creature in which a patriotic American should take national pride, and he deserves the place of honor on the Fourth of July.
 Frogs are easily prepared for the table. The most unimproved legs are considered the best for all purposes except brooding. One of the most delicious ways of serving frogs' legs is to fry them in butter and send them to the table in Hollandaise sauce. Wash the legs and wipe them with a cloth. Trim off the bones of the claws with a pair of scissors. Season the legs with salt pepper, dredge them lightly with fried cracker crumbs and fry them a golden brown in butter.

Meantime prepare a sauce for two even pairs of frog legs as follows: Stir a tablespoon of butter, add six capers, two tablespoons of grated onion and a bay leaf. Stir in a tablespoon of flour, add a pint of milk or water. Pour the stock in slowly and stir the mixture until all the lumps are stirred out. Set the saucepans on a low fire. Put the frog legs in a saucepan, pour the sauce in boiling water over and put the sauce in a double boiler cook for 20 minutes. Beat the yolks of two eggs with the juice of half a lemon. Stir the hot sauce slowly in the yolks of eggs and lemon juice. Then stir the sauce in the double boiler two or three minutes. Throw a half glass tale, cherry over the fried legs and

The legs are also nice dipped in butter. Sift a heaping cup of pastry flour through a half-teaspoonful of salt. Stir the yolks of two eggs, a tablespoonful of sweet oil and half a cup of cold water. When these ingredients are thoroughly mixed let the batter rest at least an hour. It is improved by resting longer, provided it is covered closely with a damp cloth to prevent a crust forming over it. When ready for use dip the whites of two eggs to a stiff froth and stir them carefully into the batter with a wooden spoon. Dip the "goose" legs in it, after seasoning them with salt and pepper. Immerse the legs in boiling hot fat, one pair at a time, and fry them for five minutes. Take them up with a wire spoon, and drain them on an ordinary coarse brown paper or an absorbent paper, then, with

A crole stew of frog legs is an attractive method of serving them. Wash the legs and wipe them dry with a towel. Season them and fry brown in butter. Let the legs simmer and stew for five minutes; then add half a small green pepper, minced fine, and three tomatoes, peeled and sliced. Cook the frog legs 15 minutes longer. A pair of broiled frog legs is a delicacy that not everyone can enjoy to perfection, because so few people understand how to prepare the legs properly for this purpose. Select the largest frogs. Prepare a marinade of three tablespoons of sweet oil, a half-teaspoonful of salt, a half-teaspoonful of pepper and the juice of a lemon. Roll the frog legs in this mixture and lay them on a double oyster broiler and broil them for five minutes on one side and then for five minutes on the other. They should be an even, rich brown. Slide them on a hot platter. Mix a teaspoonful of minced parsley with a teaspoonful of minced bread. Add the juice of half a lemon. Sprinkle with this over the hot frog legs.

Investigation of a Mechanicsburg Fight This Morning.

The mantle of charity was thrown about the shoulders of Mrs. Lou Charity in the police court this morning. There was a large crowd.

She and Laura Miller and John Finley Hamilton were dismissed without a fine.

Pretty Maggie Roush, Susie Eggleston and Alice Campbell were all fined. The Campbell woman went to the shanty-boat of Mrs. Charity on Island creek and was ordered out. According to her version she started to obey when she was seized by Mrs. Charity and struck in the eye. At any rate there was a rough and tumble fight, and the Campbell woman happened to be on top when Maggie Roush and the Eggleston woman sailed forth to do battle in the name of humanity. The former struck the other with a wagon spoke, and how many others jumped on could not be learned. The Campbell female had three cuts on the head, a black eye and other injuries.

Maggie Roush was fined $20 and costs and Susie Eggleston and Alice Campbell $5 and costs.

The case of Smith Boyd against Henry Diehl has been on trial today.

The jury in the case of Smith Boyd against Henry Diehl for $5,000 damages today brought in a verdict awarding the plaintiff $500 and costs. Suit was the result of the alleged action of Mr. Henry Diehl in ejecting Mr. Smith Boyd's furniture from a room in the house he rented from the former, because a colored servant occupied it. It seems that the landlady object to the colored servant, whom the plaintiff claimed had been employed to attend his wife during his absence.

The case of Leach, Bloom & Co. against Mrs. Josephine Worth is now on trial.

THE BAR MEETS
Y. M. C.

To Draft Resolutions of Respect —To Meet Again Monday.

Judge Marshall's Death Creates Much Genuine Sorrow.

The sudden death of Judge Chas. S. Marshall at Clinton, yesterday caused widespread sorrow in the city, where no one was better known or more universally respected among the older citizens.

Mr. J. E. Ezell today received a letter from Judge Marshall, written yesterday morning, announcing his arrival in Kentucky, and signifying his intention to come to Paducah. He also stated that he stood his long trip well, but that Mrs. Marshall was somewhat fatigued.

Up to noon Mr. Ezell had received no information relative to the disposition of the remains, and thinks that Mrs. Marshall, who is in delicate health, is in a critical condition as a result of the shock.

The bar met at the county court house this morning and the proceedings were as follows:

At a meeting of the members of the bar, held at the Court house in the city on the 20th of Nov., 1896, the following proceedings were had relative to the death of Hon. Chas. S. Marshall, of Missouri, Montana. Hon. W. S. Bishop was elected chairman and Mr. W. C. Kidd secretary of said meeting.

On motion of Major Thos. E. Moss the chairman appointed the following members of the bar a committee on resolutions, viz: L. D. Hubbard, Q. Q. Quigley, J. W. Bloomfield, Thos. E. Moss and H. E. Burnett, and said committee was instructed to report next Monday, at 8:30 o'clock a. m.

On motion of Major Josiah Harris the meeting adjourned until 8:30 Monday morning.

GRAND OPENING.

Of the Palmer House Bar Room, Under New Management, Tonight, Nov. 11.

Newport & Blythe, who have purchased the Palmer House Bar, extend a cordial invitation to their friends and the public in general to call to night, November 14th, and partake of the elegant lunch which will be served free to all.

The new managers of this prominent resort are not new at the business, but pride themselves on knowing the wants of the public. Nothing but first-class goods will be handled by them, and the most courteous treatment to all can be expected. Don't fail to be on hand at this grand opening on Saturday night, November 14. Everybody invited.

At Agents' Prices.

Mr. W. T. Miller,
Paducah, Ky.

DEAR SIR:—We are now starting up the Baldwin, E. Ington and Valley Gem piano factories and Hamilton organ factory in anticipation of a good trade during the months of November and December. In order to run these factories full force requires a special drive for new business and cash.

Do the best you can from that territory and let us hear from you with the best possible reports.

Let us hear from you.

D. H. BALDWIN & CO.
Dictated by A. A. VanBuren.

The above letter was handed us by which we see the wave of prosperity is coming south. These piano factories are all located in Cincinnati and are conducted by an old and reliable firm. Mr. Miller is here to stay, has a store under the Palmer House and will sell goods at agents' prices till further notice.
